

When the episode starts, Julian's mother was talking with Heather. She explained what happened to Julian and after that Vera explained that she knew that her kid was going on a trip with Adam and Bess. Julian and Vera have a private moment and when Harry interviewed Julian again, he changed all the history that he had told.

Heather and Harry suspected on Vera and decided to investigate her. They found that she was living in Mosswood, a place apart from the cities where the people lived connected with the nature and work.

In the next scene, there is a flashback. Heather was with her girlfriend and they decided to hide into the woods and saw what the people in Mosswood did there. They were discovered by a citizen and he invited them to join to their campfire. Heather's girlfriend accepted and she felt very comfortable there. After a few hours, she was getting along with the man who invited her to join and he asked her to go to the barn. They went inside and the flashback stops there.

The following day, Harry visited Julian and he acted pretty confident. Julian said "Outsiders are all the same and we can't trust you". But Harry kept trying to make Julian talk. He made it telling him some things about himself. He did it so well that Julian talked about his nightmare, the ones about a hooded man that followed him and he couldn't escape.

Harry realized that he had to see what was going on Mosswood. Heather and Harry went there and saw that there weren't any other children and also that a person was using Bess's necklace. But there was more, Heather saw a person who was in the hotel when they went there, therefore Vera must had known about what happened from before than she had told. Harry thought that Adam and Bess were escaping from something or someone.

At the end of the episode, Heather went to the barn where her girlfriend came in. When she was there, she saw a giant rock with blood on the surface.
